HISTORY MONTH

We continuously celebrate the proud ways African Americans have built this country, recommit to the struggle to achieve, and commemorate African Americans who have made tremendous contributions to the fabric of America throughout our history.

A great trailblazer in the entertainment and business cross-section is Oprah Winfrey. Oprah, is an American television producer, actress, author, and media proprietor.

Oprah Winfrey's decision to start and host her own talk show exemplifies the significance of taking control of one's destiny. "Entrepreneurs should recognize that self-employment offers the freedom to shape their own path and make impactful decisions."

This is Oprah's power of self-belief. Winfrey built her empire step by step, using her television show as the platform to start a production company, then diversifying into print, radio, and online media businesses, and launching a high-profile charitable foundation.
